Commenter Type:	Neighbour
Stance:	Customer objects to the Planning Application
Reasons for comment:	- Design - Overdevelopment - Privacy Light and Noise - Trees and Landscaping
Comments:	I am objecting to the above application for installing a mezzanine floor to the existing building as the hight of the building will be seen from the public foot path which runs parallel to the existing building and is only 1 metre away from the "holiday let ". If the current building does not comply to the standards required to be occupied , it should not have been granted planning permission in the first application .

The owner of Lock House has submitted numerous planning applications , when looked at as a whole , is nothing short of a holiday village which we do not want . He was granted permission for a barn , large enough to store up to 5000 bales of hay . He is not a farmer , nor does he have sufficient acres to make this amount of hay . This purely Commercial Enterprise should be looked at from the Commercial planning point of view.

Kind regards
