Comments:	[redacted]. My concern is that an 80 bedded dementia unit seems to be be excessive I have now seem 2 companies that started off fairly small grow to quickly and then run into problems because the got greedy and forgot somewhere along the line that that people were more important than profit. Once again I see troubled ahead . Parking would also be a huge concern as there was never enough parking on the site. Once care staff,managers,admin, physios, gp and families had parked it was very difficult for ambulances to get in. The plans are for an 80 bedded unit more than doubling the number of beds there now. Please look at this application extremely carefully so that history doesn't repeat itself .with kind
