Reasons for comment:	- Design - Other
Comments:	While some of the proposed activities that will be available may sound fun, there's already similar ones at a 10 car ride or even less. There are already scape rooms inside swan walk, alongside of arcade machines, etc. There are several empty units there or close by where they could've expanded to if needed, and they have not. It would be great to have a boardgame type of cafe where you can play all sorts of tabletop games, card games, ttrpgs, drawing and other more quiet types of entertainment. Including hosting some tournaments. There's also enough space there to have a bouldering centre if you want to add something more active and healthy centric. You could even mix both things. A lot of people that I know live in Horsham or closeby would love to go. The closest place is like 20 minutes away by car, so this would be a great addition.

Kind regards
