Dear Madelenine,

No I understand everything required has been done and the application should be validated? the correct notification were carried out and we are waiting on the council and the advert was published in the papers months ago. I sent the planning authority a copy of the advert?

Good morning Robert

Please can you provide an update on the validation of planning application reference DC/25/1970, and the requirement for the relevant advertisement to be displayed.

As you are aware compliance with the effective enforcement notice is now long overdue, and if the planning application is not validated by 1st July 2026, the Council's legal department will be instructed to pursue prosecution action.

I hope that this clarifies the situation.

Kind regards

You need to provide the advertisement on behalf of the applicant, in order to satisfy the requirements of the Act- as such we do not have templates here at the Council, as the only adverts we publish are those to advise readers of applications received.

Having Googled examples, please find attached one that I found for another LPA, and the link below to the Planning Portal which I suggest you check against the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015 for completeness.

Hi Madeleine,

The newspaper have comeback saying both adverts are incorrect and i need to get confirmation the wording is correct sorry about this the delay seems to be with the papers

Below is what i have proposed please confirm as the paper has said the templates i have produced are what the council put in not what a applicant puts in:

What about this:

Steve Younger of Rusty Barn Farm Bramble Lane Thakeham West Sussex give notice that the following application Reference: DC/25/1970 has been submitted to Horsham District Council between 3 May 2026 and 24 May 2026. This advert is a neighbour notification giving notice to the landowners along the lane. The plans can be seen for 21 day at the council's headquarters.

You

Hi Rob

That still doesn't seem right. You need to speak to the council and get the full wording please. None of the wordings you have provided include the information we would expect, there is usually representation information, a clear title and laid out specifically to meet your legal obligation.

As we are not legally trained I can't provide you templates or create this wording for you. You need to get this get advise from the council

Once we have this I will able to get a quote to you.

Many Thanks

Hi Rob

Thanks for sending this across. But that is a Horsham Council planning notice, not something that is placed by an individual.

You need to speak to the Council and obtain the correct form and send it back to me completed. I can then get this quoted.

Many Thanks

Good morning Reg,

Trust you had a good weekend. I was reviewing the adjacent site for a gypsy pitch and the findings of the court however what i have not been able to see is any neighbour notification. The Land registry is substantially behind in registering any change of ownerships etc. I was going to suggest Steve put a advert in the newspaper. Also have you had a response concerning Steve's daughter? Just a final note as well the caravan i understand if its a welfare unit would not have to be moved from the site from what the inspectors decision was yet you have still included it in the enforcement notice?

> All applications for planning permission must be accompanied by a certificate confirming that either the applicant is the sole owner of the land to which the application relates or that the appropriate notice has been served on any person who is an owner of the land or a tenant. Section 65(5) of the Town & Country Planning Act 1990 says that a local planning authority shall not "entertain" any application for planning permission where these requirements have not been satisfied.

The term 'owner' means a person having a freehold interest or a leasehold interest, the unexpired term of which is at least seven years. There can therefore be more than one owner (for example, the landlord and any tenants).

When the landowner has been notified by the applicant, the applicant is required to confirm this to us by submitting one of a choice of four ownership certificates with their planning application.

This is a new access track across the headland of the adjacent field. So if you wanted to use this as means of access to the application site, you would need to notify the relevant landowner(s) which you failed to do.

Hi Reg,

A quick question I understand my client still has access via bramble lane and uses that access, the council validated the application. Therefore why or what evidence did the council have to say that he did not have access? However happy to notify people via the other access as i am resubmitting the application..
