Comments:	Hi, Just reading the new water neutrality statement and figures. 1200 plus litres of water a day? must see those water records. As with everything to do with this application from site plans that no longer are the same, hedges that have been removed that were supposed to be screening, the house is now for sale apparently yet is part of the application. Which part of this application is actually true or as proposed? how can anyone make decisions or comments on such a fluid application.

Kind regards
