Good morning

Please find attached our risk assessment for these works which shows that, as professional tree surgeons, we consider the tree to be in a poor condition - see column to the left of work detail - and therefore agree with the customer's decision to dismantle it.

The tree is within an area which is already densely populated with trees of different species so I do not think the owner planned to replant. However, I am sure that he would be receptive to any suggestions from the Tree Officer in this regard.

Best, Kate
