This architectural drawing shows the front elevation of a building. The structure features a prominent gabled roof on the left side, which transitions into a lower, flat-roofed section on the right. The main body of the building is characterized by horizontal siding. To the right, there is a small, enclosed porch or entrance area with a gabled roof and vertical siding. The drawing is a black and white line art representation, typical of architectural blueprints.

A detailed architectural line drawing of a two-story house. The house features a steep gabled roof. On the left side, there is a chimney. The front facade includes a central entrance with a double door, flanked by windows. To the right of the entrance is a single door and a small window. The second story has three windows: a large central one and two smaller ones on either side. The drawing uses simple lines and shading to represent the building's structure and features.

A line drawing of a house with a gabled roof. The house has a chimney on the left side and a small porch with a gabled roof. The drawing is a simple line sketch showing the basic structure and roofline.

A horizontal beam of total length 5m is divided into five equal segments of 1m each. The segments are shaded alternately: black, white, black, white, black. The segments are labeled 0m, 1m, 2m, 3m, 4m, and 5m at the boundaries.
