The yew is very close to the Offices of Smith Gadd in The Courtyard
The growth is luxuriant on the south side where it receives light

Seen from Horsham Park, the tree is in poor condition on that side
This east side over Horsham Park is denuded of foliage

West side - The lower branches interfere with each other and shade the garden
This west side has more foliage but it is thin

Interfering branches that need thinning (close up)

East side - Dead and damaged branches overhanging Horsham Park

General view of the imbalance of the tree structure
The top of the crown will benefit from shaping
