[redacted]

From: conservation@sussexgardenstrust.org.uk
Sent: 09 April 2024 20:52
To: Planning
[redacted]: [redacted]
Subject: Re: DC/24/0088 Leonardslee Gardens Grade I listed

Categories: Consultations

Representatives of Sussex Gardens Trust have studied the recent revision to the above application which reduces the number of double sided signs from 3 to 2. However the size and character of the signs remains the same. Sussex Gardens Trust continues to object to the application and again emphasises the importance of receiving from the applicant a detailed planting plan as described in our earlier letter of 21st February. We have recently provided informal advice as to how this could be provided and look forward to seeing the outcome.

Kind regards

Jim Stockwell

on behalf of Sussex Gardens Trust

On 21/02/2024 17:23, conservation@sussexgardenstrust.org.uk wrote:

> Dear Sirs
>
> Please see attached a letter from Sussex Gardens Trust regarding the above application
>
> Kind regards
>
> Jim Stockwell
>
> on behalf of Sussex Gardens Trust
>
> On 14/02/2024 15:07, conservation@sussexgardenstrust.org.uk wrote:
>
> > I refer to the above planning application.
> >
> > This has very recently been brought to the attention of Sussex Gardens Trust by one of our members. Since this application lies within the Grade I listed Leonardslee Gardens, Horsham District Council is required to consult both the Gardens Trust and Historic England.
> >
> > Can I also report that the planning site has experienced problems recently that prevented our member from viewing associated documents and I too experienced the same difficulty this morning. However this afternoon I was able to access the documents and will be sending a letter of objection shortly.

Kind regards

Jim Stockwell

on behalf of Sussex Gardens Trust