Good afternoon,

For the solar panels please can you respond to the below queries:

Would the solar panels on the flats:

- Protrude more the 0.2m from the plane of the wall or (in the case of a pitched roof) the roof slope when measured from the perpendicular with the external surface of the wall or (pitched) roof slope; No, flush with roof finish.

- If the solar panels are on a flat roof would they be more than 0.6m higher than the highest part of the roof (excluding any chimney) None envisaged on flat roofs

- Would any plug in solar be installed on a wooden wall, balcony or enclosure or on any part of the exterior of a block of flats which is clad in timber. No

Would the solar panels on the dwellinghouse:

- Be on any other surface than a pitched roof No

- Would the solar PV or solar thermal equipment protruding more than 0.2 metres beyond the roof slope when measured from the perpendicular with the external surface of the pitched roof slope No, flush with roof finish.

- Would the highest part of the solar PV or solar thermal equipment be higher than the highest part of the roof (excluding any chimney); No

- Would any plug in solar be installed on a wooden wall, balcony or enclosure or on any part of the exterior of a dwellinghouse where that part is clad in timber. No

Kind regards,
