Stance: Customer objects to the Planning Application

Reasons for comment:

- Loss of General Amenity
- Privacy Light and Noise
- Trees and Landscaping

Comments: It should be emphasized that there is no existing or operational business on this site. A forestry barn of a not insignificant scale such this is arguably excessive for an enterprise that has not yet been established.

Other factors are the proximity, considering the vast nature of the available land on the site. The precise location for the structure is close to the boundary with National Trust land to the west and our boundary to the south. My primary concerns are the potential impact on the landscape but more crucially noise pollution from machinery, which raises questions concerning the suitability of the barn on the specific site proposed.

If the application is ultimately approved the sheer size of the barn and position should be reviewed beforehand, with adequate provisions for screening being implemented.

Kind regards
