Reasons for comment:	- Design - Other
Comments:	When the Rookwood Park development by Berkeley Homes was built all properties were designed for the most pleasing space and outlook. This application which is described as "extension to existing garage to provide extra ancillary space for the clients use." The existing dwelling has already been extended and is of brick and tile construction. The idea of timber cladding for this we feel is not in keeping or aesthetically pleasing to be constructed extremely close to the boundary which is overlooking our property. The roof height is also higher than the existing garage and garden shed. The noise level to our property will also increase which is of concern to us because of the suggested location.

Kind regards
