Stance:	Customer objects to the Planning Application
Reasons for comment:	- Design
Comments:	The Heritage Homes development consists of 125 houses all of which have "georgian" style windows. Many houses have had extensions and improvements over the past 45 years, but have retained this important architectural feature, maintaining consistency on the estate. The original planning application indicated that the windows would remain the same style , therefore I had no objection to the original plans of the extension. However, the replacement "plain" windows are not in keeping with the overall design of the neighborhood, and are different to what the architects proposed planning application DC/25/0305.

Kind regards
