Hi Halima,

There are no arboricultural concerns associated with the above application for erection of a side extension and detached garage with integrated pool house and swimming pool. Those ornamental trees/domestic hedging requiring removal are not of wider landscape significance.

With all applications of this nature requiring disposal of excavated spoil, it may be prudent to get control of where the spoil goes either prior to determination or by condition as you deem appropriate. Without prior planning, those tasked with the job may unwittingly raise levels in areas that can have detrimental impact on the key rooting/future health of nearby/surrounding trees.

Regards

Andy

Hi Halima,

I can confirm that the amended plans have no additional arboricultural implications.
