Dear Ms Buck,

Re: Tree Surgery Quotation;

[redacted]

You require the one Quercus robur (Oak) situated to the rear Southern aspect of the house adjacent to the rear boundary line and overhanging your neighbours property, to be climbed and firstly reduced in overall size by some 20-25% of the upper canopy and totally reshaped accordingly to maintain balanced canopy regrowth. Also remove all major dead-wood throughout to make safe, and crown clean accordingly, and then crown lift the lower protruding canopy up to some 5 metres in height.

Lowering work will be carried out to avoid any damage to surrounding property.
All brushwood debris removed will be totally cleared away from site. All other larger timbers will be sawn out into firewood logs and rings, left for your disposal, and the grounds left tidy.

Yours sincerely [redacted]
