Comments:

I cannot believe HDC are still going to allow this development, apart from all the reasons given by myself and others in earlier comments in earlier related applications for this same project, why oh why do we need to destroy green fields for housing that is not necessary as after the next general election and all illegals are removed from this country there will be a glut of housing that will be hard to fill and as such housing prices will fall thus allowing more opportunities for first time buyers so refusing any further development at least for the next few years till the country can stabilise we will save our country side. Of course, that will mean developers might have a touch of unemployment or they could go to work developing all the derelict/brown field sites scattered around Sussex and kill 2 birds with one stone, but of course that would be less profitable and it would mean all the wild life living in and about the green fields slated for destruction can keep their natural habitat and just go about their business. And one should bear in mind that should the destroyers get there way I'm sure they will have the eyes on the next field and then the next and spread their cancerous ways into infinity, let's just cut this cancer out once and for all.

Kind regards
