Hi Jacques,

The engineer has confirmed the powder coating shade as RAL 7016 Anthracite Grey. Google will find you an example. And will be in a matte finish.

Hopefully that will be enough information.

Many thanks,

Hello [REDACTED]

Thank you for confirming those details. I would recommend something that would blend neatly with your decking colour so perhaps a darker grey such as anthracite may work – though it is your decision to make. I would also agree that a matte finish would be better than high gloss. If you are able to confirm the colour of the flooring and steel for me before next week that would be great as authorising officers may delay the applications sign off if a choice of colour is not optioned. A picture or link to website of those selected would be helpful to include too.

Best

Hi Jaques,

Experience of a North facing wooden structure has led to the decision that the whole structure will be steel - both balcony and stairs. It will all be powder coated but I haven't decided on a colour yet.

The decking on the balcony will be composite wood effect in a dark wood tone, similar to the current structure. The stair treads are steel.

Probably dark grey or perhaps black. Hopefully not high gloss .

Are there any colours I should avoid ? I am not planning anything flamboyant.

Kind regards,

Good morning

Hope you are well. Can you confirm is the new balcony and stairs steel construction or is it only the staircase? In addition what colour is this to be finished in?

Thanks
