Hi Alice,

Having taken a quick measure from the plan, including the van, trailer and horse box trailer as shown on the plans, it looks like two more car parking spaces could be accommodated within the frontage of the stables (I attach a crude drawing of two car parking spaces at 2.4m x 4.8m each). However, this may limit access into the stables. Of course, additional parking could also be accommodated within the turning circle, although this would inhibit the ability for a car with trailer to turn on-site. On-site turning for a car without a trailer could be possible with less space.

I guess it is a question of how many vehicles you expect would need to be parked at the site at any given time.

I hope this helps with your question but let me know if you have any more queries.
Kind regards
